There is no doubt but that the best results in any society are obtained whe il of its parts co-operate most fully and contribute most liberally to the general-being.

smaller organizations.

Often it happers that when different members of a society have been operating about certain definite lines they tend to forget that improvement is always in order and that it must be constantly studied for.

Such we feet has bappened in the case of our local public and a certain number of the physicians who serve it.

The Express in listening to the complaint of the physicians regarding a lack program of the public in the program of the public in the regard has been due to lack of study for improvement of service on the part of the physicians.

The Express has made public the charges of some of those who have consect to patronize our physicians.

It has done so, not to raise an excitoment merely, but for the purpose of caus.

lag both the physicians and public to think more consistently of their duty to eacher and function more efficiently in that regard.

Our physicians are competent, they are prepared to render as expert service sour general physicial complaints warrant.

Incompetence has not been charged to them.

But in regard to those things of which neutrion has been made some definite thought and qure should be given to their elimination. They can be avoided and in their avoidance a greater spirit of friendliness and good will will result to petrons a well as physicians.

After all criticism with no view to better conditions to follow is destructive. Let those members of the public who have criticised certain practices of certain physicians resume their logality to them when such pencices coase. Let our physicians study every day to render such efficient and courteous service that one's criticism as have masteriated will include in no loneer.
